The 7-Point Business Growth Audit

Find what's working. Identify what's holding you back. Know what to fix.

Grace Olubunmi Arungbemi

A NOTE TO THE FOUNDER

Your business might not need more marketing.

It might need a better understanding of what's already happening.

A business can be doing so many things and still struggle to make meaningful progress. You post consistently, invest in advertising, introduce new products, and try almost every marketing idea someone recommends.

Yet, when you look at the numbers, something still isn't adding up. Enquiries aren't turning into enough sales. Customers may not understand your difference. Marketing activity keeps increasing, but you cannot confidently say which actions bring business.

Before you do more, understand what needs attention.

That's why I created this audit: to help you ask better questions about your business, identify overlooked gaps, and find clarity about where to focus next. You may discover strengths you haven't recognised and weaknesses you can begin to address.

The goal is not to judge your success. It is to examine seven areas that influence how your business attracts, converts, and retains customers.

FOUNDER, DONE FOR YOU BY GRACE

BEFORE WE BEGIN

A little honesty makes this more valuable.

This audit examines seven areas that influence how your business attracts, converts and retains customers. You will answer three questions per area.

YOUR SCORING KEY

0	NO Missing, or you cannot identify evidence that it is happening.
1	PARTIALLY Started but incomplete, inconsistent, or not yet reliably supported.
2	YES Established and actively implemented, with something you can demonstrate.

Maximum: 6 points per area; 42 across all seven. Use evidence from the past 90 days where available. If you are a newer business, use the period since launch.

Brand Positioning & Clarity

01

Do people understand why your business exists and why they should choose you?

An excellent product can still struggle when customers cannot understand its relevance. Clear positioning explains who you serve, the value you deliver, and why the right customer should consider you.

THREE QUESTIONS / SCORE EACH 0-2

01 Can your ideal customer quickly understand what your business offers, who it serves, and the problem it solves?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

02 Have you clearly identified the specific customers your business is best positioned to serve?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

03 Can you explain what makes your offer different or more suitable than the alternatives available to your customers?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

LOOK FOR THE EVIDENCE

Review your homepage, LinkedIn description, Instagram bio and sales materials. Do they tell a consistent story?

Use the following page to capture your findings and complete your reflection.

GROWTH AREA 01 / YOUR NOTES

Evidence & Reflection 01

Take a few minutes to reflect on what you discovered. Use evidence from your actual business, not assumptions.

YOUR FIVE-MINUTE EXERCISE

Complete this sentence: We help _____ achieve _____ through _____. Ask someone unfamiliar with your business to read it.

YOUR OBSERVATIONS

A confused customer is unlikely to make a confident buying decision.

YOUR REFLECTION

What is one part of your business messaging that needs to become clearer?

MY ANSWER

SECTION SCORE

GROWTH AREA 02

Customer Understanding 02

Are you marketing to real customer needs or to assumptions?

Knowing your product and understanding your customer are different things. Buyers have needs, objections, expectations, and motivations that influence whether they purchase.

THREE QUESTIONS / SCORE EACH 0-2

01 Have you identified your ideal customers using actual feedback, customer conversations, purchasing patterns, or market research?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

02 Do you understand the main problems, motivations, and objections that influence their buying decisions?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

03 Do you regularly use customer insights to improve your products, services, messaging, or customer experience?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

LOOK FOR THE EVIDENCE

Review customer messages, sales conversations, feedback and reviews. Notice the questions that keep coming up.

Use the following page to capture your findings and complete your reflection.

GROWTH AREA 02 / YOUR NOTES

Evidence & Reflection 02

Take a few minutes to reflect on what you discovered. Use evidence from your actual business, not assumptions.

YOUR FIVE-MINUTE EXERCISE

Write down three questions or objections you hear most often. Does your marketing answer them clearly?

YOUR OBSERVATIONS

The customer you want to attract should influence the message you put out.

YOUR REFLECTION

What assumption about your customers do you need to investigate?

MY ANSWER

SECTION SCORE

GROWTH AREA 03

Visibility & Discoverability 03

Can the right people find your business when they need what you offer?

Visibility means people see your business. Discoverability means they can find it when they have a relevant need. Focus on channels your ideal buyers actually use.

THREE QUESTIONS / SCORE EACH 0-2

01 Does your business have an accurate and professional online presence that clearly explains its services and how to contact you?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

02 Can potential customers discover your business through the search channels and platforms most relevant to your industry?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

03 Is your brand identity, core messaging, and business information consistent across your important digital platforms?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

LOOK FOR THE EVIDENCE

Search your brand and the service category without using your name. Verify accuracy across relevant profiles.

Use the following page to capture your findings and complete your reflection.

GROWTH AREA 03 / YOUR NOTES

Evidence & Reflection 03

Take a few minutes to reflect on what you discovered. Use evidence from your actual business, not assumptions.

YOUR FIVE-MINUTE EXERCISE

List two discovery channels your ideal customer would use; check how your business appears on each.

YOUR OBSERVATIONS

Do not rely entirely on people already knowing your name.

YOUR REFLECTION

Which online touchpoint or discovery channel requires improvement?

MY ANSWER

SECTION SCORE

GROWTH AREA 04

Marketing Effectiveness 04

Is your marketing creating opportunities or simply keeping you busy?

A full content calendar and beautiful graphics can coexist with weak commercial outcomes. Awareness, education, trust, and conversion each serve different purposes. The key is knowing why you are doing an activity.

THREE QUESTIONS / SCORE EACH 0-2

01 Does your business have defined marketing objectives connected to its current business priorities?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

02 Does your marketing content address customer needs and guide potential buyers towards understanding or considering your offers?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

03 Do you regularly evaluate whether your marketing channels are attracting relevant prospects and creating useful business opportunities?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

LOOK FOR THE EVIDENCE

Look beyond views and follower growth. Review relevant enquiries, bookings, customer conversations and actions.

Use the following page to capture your findings and complete your reflection.

GROWTH AREA 04 / YOUR NOTES

Evidence & Reflection 04

Take a few minutes to reflect on what you discovered. Use evidence from your actual business, not assumptions.

YOUR FIVE-MINUTE EXERCISE

For your last three marketing activities, note the objective, audience, intended action and observed outcome.

YOUR OBSERVATIONS

A busy marketing calendar is not the same thing as an effective strategy.

YOUR REFLECTION

Which marketing activity deserves improvement or reconsideration?

GROWTH AREA 05

Sales & Conversion 05

What happens after someone expresses interest in your business?

An enquiry is an opportunity, not a sale. Unclear offers, slow responses, missing follow-ups, or insufficient reassurance can create unnecessary friction. Help customers make informed decisions.

THREE QUESTIONS / SCORE EACH 0-2

01 Is there a clear and convenient next step for someone interested in purchasing your product or service?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

02 Does your business have a reliable system for responding to, recording, and following up on qualified enquiries?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

03 Does your sales process give customers the information, reassurance, and support they need to make a buying decision?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

LOOK FOR THE EVIDENCE

Review recent enquiries: response times, information shared, follow-ups and recurring moments of confusion.

Use the following page to capture your findings and complete your reflection.

GROWTH AREA 05 / YOUR NOTES

Evidence & Reflection 05

Take a few minutes to reflect on what you discovered. Use evidence from your actual business, not assumptions.

YOUR FIVE-MINUTE EXERCISE

Walk through the buying process as a first-time customer. Where might you hesitate or get lost?

YOUR OBSERVATIONS

What happens after an enquiry determines whether an opportunity progresses.

YOUR REFLECTION

What is one avoidable obstacle in your sales process?

MY ANSWER

GROWTH AREA 06

Customer Retention & Experience 06

What happens after your customer pays?

Customer relationships deserve attention after the first purchase. A thoughtful experience can support satisfaction, repeat purchasing where relevant, referrals, and a stronger reputation.

THREE QUESTIONS / SCORE EACH 0-2

01 Does your business have a consistent way of supporting or communicating with customers after a purchase or service delivery?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

02 Do you actively collect and use customer feedback to improve the quality of your products, services, or experience?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

03 Have you established suitable ways to encourage repeat business, referrals, testimonials, or long-term customer relationships?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

LOOK FOR THE EVIDENCE

Review post-sale communication, customer feedback, complaints, repeat purchases and referral patterns.

Use the following page to capture your findings and complete your reflection.

GROWTH AREA 06 / YOUR NOTES

Evidence & Reflection 06

Take a few minutes to reflect on what you discovered. Use evidence from your actual business, not assumptions.

YOUR FIVE-MINUTE EXERCISE

Think of your last five customers. What happened after delivery? What did you learn?

YOUR OBSERVATIONS

A customer should not become invisible the moment payment is received.

YOUR REFLECTION

How can you support customers better after doing business with you?

Growth Measurement & Decision-Making 07

Are business decisions based on evidence or assumptions?

Without useful information, founders can struggle to identify which activities deserve investment. You do not need complicated analytics to start: a consistently maintained tracker can reveal valuable patterns.

THREE QUESTIONS / SCORE EACH 0-2

01 Do you consistently track important business outcomes such as enquiries, customers acquired, sales, or revenue?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

02 Can you identify which marketing channels generate qualified leads and how effectively those leads become customers?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

03 Do you regularly review your business performance and use those insights to adjust your marketing, sales, or growth priorities?

☐ NO 0 ☐ PARTLY 1 ☐ YES 2

LOOK FOR THE EVIDENCE

Review the past three months. Can you trace enquiry sources, customers acquired and important outcomes?

Use the following page to capture your findings and complete your reflection.

GROWTH AREA 07 / YOUR NOTES

Evidence & Reflection 07

Take a few minutes to reflect on what you discovered. Use evidence from your actual business, not assumptions.

YOUR FIVE-MINUTE EXERCISE

Choose three metrics you should review every month, such as qualified enquiries, new customers and revenue.

YOUR OBSERVATIONS

You cannot make every decision with perfect information, but you can make fewer decisions in the dark.

YOUR REFLECTION

What business information are you unable to track confidently?

0-14 / FOUNDATIONS NEED ATTENTION
Important growth practices may be missing. Strengthen the foundations before increasing spend.

15-28 / GROWTH SYSTEMS DEVELOPING
Useful practices exist, but gaps or inconsistent processes remain.

29-42 / STRONGER GROWTH FOUNDATIONS
Many core practices appear to be in place. Refine, test and improve.

Important: This is a self-assessment, not a certified performance rating or prediction of revenue. A high total can still hide a serious problem in one growth area.

WHERE SHOULD YOU FOCUS FIRST

Don't try to fix everything at once.

A long list of problems can quickly become another overwhelming to-do list. Start with the gaps that most affect customer experience and meaningful business outcomes.

HOW I WILL MEASURE PROGRESS

FROM ASSESSMENT TO ACTION

Make one meaningful change this month.

Choose one step you can implement, measure and learn from. You do not need to transform your whole business in a single week.

A PRACTICAL EXAMPLE

Suppose your business receives enquiries, but follow-up is inconsistent. Instead of automatically spending more on ads, introduce an enquiry tracker and assign responsibility.

After a few weeks, compare response times, sales conversations and customers acquired. Check if the process improved performance.
